

Article 3 Section 1

THE CLOUD OWNERSHIP DISTRIBUTION ACT

In a win for the Landowners' Alliance, the air directly above a person's property is now considered private soil. However, the Aeronautical League pushed through a rider stating that clouds are "transient trespassers." Therefore, if a cloud rains on your property, you have legal right to sue the cloud, provided you can serve the papers to it before it leaves your property.